Kenneth D. Kleinman is recognized as one of the leading experts in occupational safety and health matters and publishes regularly in this area. He is co-editor of the nationally recognized treatise, Occupational Safety and Health Law, published by the American Bar Association and the Bureau of National Affairs. He has successfully negotiated or tried dozens of high-profile, six figure OSHA citations, including cases involving fatalities, multiple-employer work sites and criminal prosecutions. He is also the immediate past Management Chair of the ABA Occupational Safety and Health Committee of the Labor and Employment Law Section.

Mr. Kleinman also represents management in the labor relations and employment litigation fields. In the much-publicized Paralegal v. Lawyer, he represented the lawyer after the lawyer, who had initially represented himself, lost the liability phase of his case. Mr. Kleinman convinced the jury to award zero damages. He has also successfully tried numerous employment cases in state and federal courts, including a week-long ERISA trial that resulted in costs being awarded to his client and a two-week-long wrongful discharge trial in which the jury awarded damages to the company defendant he represented. Mr. Kleinman also assisted a client that moved from Philadelphia to the suburbs to successfully withdraw recognition from Teamsters Local 115, one of the most powerful unions in Philadelphia. He is experienced in litigating restrictive covenant matters in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. He successfully defended an employer in Montgomery County that hired an employee subject to a non-compete clause in a week-long preliminary injunction trial, and has enforced non-compete clauses against employees who attempted to breach their agreements.

Mr. Kleinman was a Law Clerk to the Honorable Walter Jay Skinner, United States District Justice for the District of Massachusetts. He received a J.D., magna cum laude, from Harvard Law School (1979) and a B.S., summa cum laude, from Cornell University (1976).

Mr. Kleinman is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association and American Bar Association. He is a recent past President of the Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations Alumni Association.

As published in the June 2005 issue of Philadelphia magazine, Mr. Kleinman was recognized as a 2005 Pennsylvania Super Lawyer by being selected by his peers as among the top 5 percent of lawyers in the Commonwealth. He was also selected in 2004.
